I think Chris Mathews was brought down because he came out against Socialism in America, Leftists got pissed,and they quit protecting him over his "indiscretions"

Either that, or we'll all supposed to believe the timing of this was all just random

If anything will make the Anglos mad, it's this.

Sports authorities and broadcasters have been summoned by the government for discussions on coronavirus contingency plans - as the Premier League considers banning over-70s at matches.

The meetings will be held in London on Monday and will cover various possibilities in case the virus spreads

Although a Democrat, Tulsi Gabbard comes across as very moderate, rational and patriotic. She's also a "woman of color". Yet the left hates her and the media demonizes her at every available opportunity.

Tells you everything about how far to the fringes they've shifted.

While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. A woman who [illegible]ed the incident says she feared Ilesanmi [illegible]bout to be attacked. 'The man had his [illegible]ead to the preacher's forehead. While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64 year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. A woman who filmed the incident says she feared Ilesanmi was about to be attacked. 'The man had his head to the preacher's forehead. He looked like he was about to knock him out.' It seemed that Ilesanmi was the victim, but he was accused of Islamophobia, and when the police arrived. The video - since viewed millions of times online - shows what happened next. Ilesanmi was arrested, handcuffed and one of the While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. A woman who ...ed the incident says she feared Ilesanmi ...bout to be attacked. 'The man had his ...ead to the preacher's forehead. He ...d like he was about to knock him out.' ...seemed that Ilesanmi was the victim. ... he was accused of Islamophobia, and ...n the police arrived. The video – since ...ewed millions of times online – shows what happened next. Ilesanmi was arrested, handcuffed and one of...

While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. While violent crime soars, our police are being dispatched to kidnap Christian street preachers because they criticised Islam.

Being a street preacher can be a thankless business. Since moving to Britain from Nigeria nine years ago, 64-year-old Oluwole Ilesanmi has toured the country reading aloud from the Bible, spending hours outside train stations, urging people to see the light. Sometimes he makes a convert, most of the time his preaching falls on deaf ears. Last month, it resulted in him being arrested.

Saturday 23 February began like a typical day for Ilesanmi. He went to Southgate tube station in north London and preached for a few hours. His spiel included a disobliging reference to Islam, which seemed to rile a passer by. To Ilesanmi's surprise he was then accosted by the man. Harvey Weinstein sentenced to 23 years in prison.

Meanwhile, all the Hollywood celebs who covered up for him for decades will continue to take podiums lecturing us about what such good people they are.

I'm so sick of the communist news network. Someone needs to come out with a streaming service where we pick each individual channel we want. Watch how fast they'll become fair & balanced then Watched it yesterday. Laughed out loud at some points. Dave spoke so brazenly concerning topics that we are supposed to walk on eggshells around. I was worried for him. But the special made me laugh. It was funny, even if you were offended by it.

I didn't realize Rotten Tomatoes ended the audience score. It was usually the opposite of the critic score. If the critic score was low, and the audience score was high, it was definately worth watching.

Boris Johnson's coronavirus response, which so far will NOT enforce any kind of significant social distancing/quarantines is likely somewhat based on how the UK's more "unruly" demographics would respond to such measures.

We all remember the riots of 2011.

However, I think we can all agree on what its proper name should be.

As per usual, so-called "journalists" attempted to hijack the #TrumpPressConference to act out their Trump derangement syndrome and failed miserably.

They will stop at nothing, not even a global pandemic, in their efforts to undermine him.

Dow up over 9%.

Solid.

1957 flu pandemic killed 115,700 Americans and 1.1 million worldwide.

Nicholas A. Christakis @NAChristakis
Flu pandemics recur reliably but unpredictably every decade or so, and their extent and intensity varies. With COVID19, we may be in midst of a once-every-50-years event perhaps similar to 1957 pandemic, but not as bad as the 1918 pandemic. Let's talk about the 1957 pandemic 1/

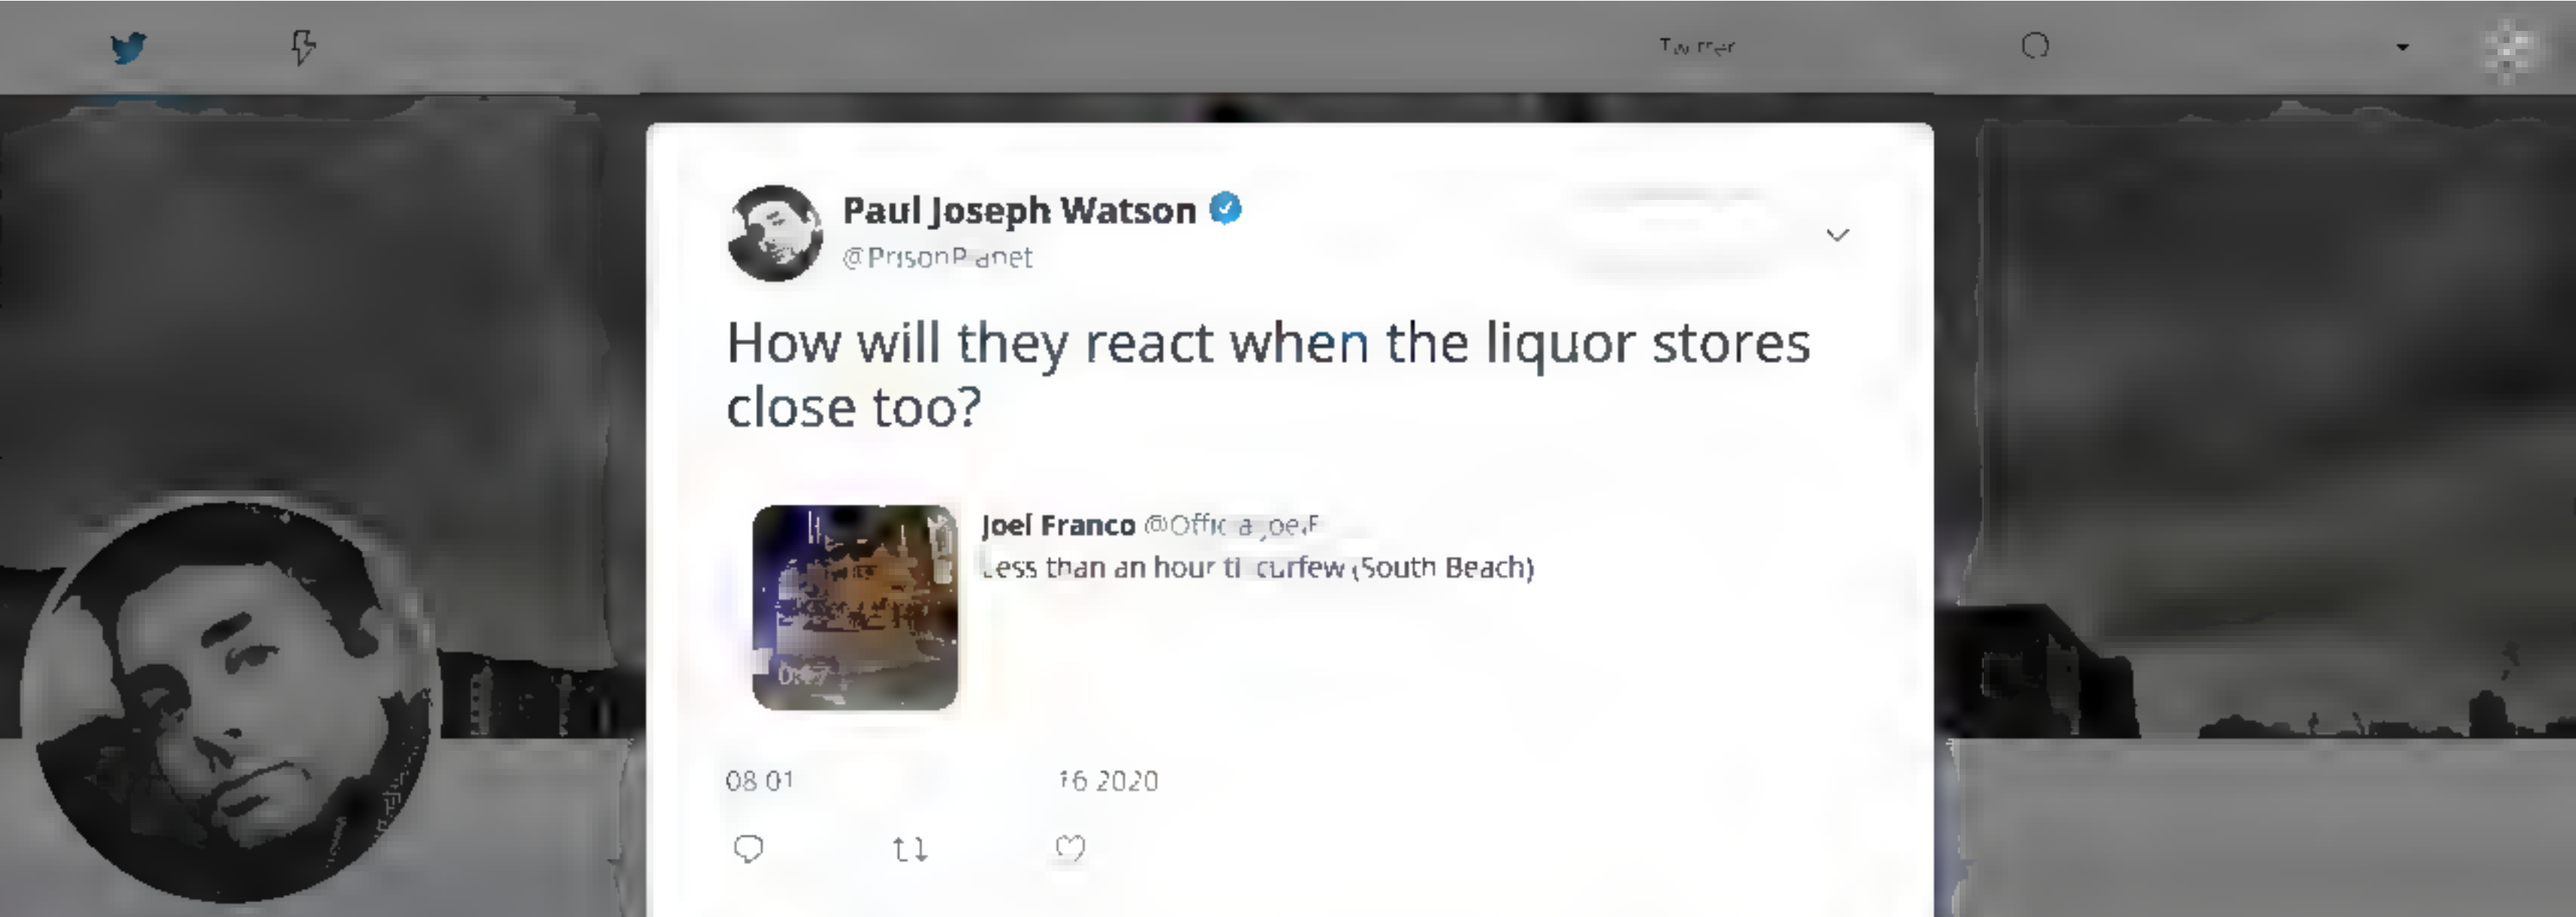
The UK is still performing zero checks on anyone arriving from corona-plagued countries.

The UK has imposed zero border controls under a "conservative" government even as other western countries with leftist governments do so.



Totally absurd.

Hello Paul, to inform you of your last tweet, my friend who works in London flew this afternoon to the Gatwick airport from Alicante, Spain and te ls me that he entered without any temperature check, crazy knowing that in Spain we are unable to go out and everything is closed and the state of alarm has been declared and we have already detected almost 8000 cases, but according to the government there are many more, but here in Benidorm there are many Britons and Spaniards who w'll return to the United Kingdom without any check, a complete madness. I hope they close the border as soon as possible.

There's huge momentum for conservatives to dismiss the seriousness of coronavirus as contrived hysteria to sink Trump.

Same goes for media & the left. Their motive is to spread panic for ratings & to justify Trump Derangement Syndrome.

The media is STILL upset that Trump calls it the 'Chinese Virus'.

In doing so, they're still amplifying rhetoric directly from the Chinese Communist Party that to do so is "racist," despite the fact that it's completely accurate.

This is incredible.

Back in Jan/Feb, the media said it was racist to say it came from bats.

Now they're saying it did come from bats, but that to call it the 'China virus' is racist.

No doubt whatever we're calling it next month will also be racist.

MSNBC @MSNBC

@RichardEngel "This is a virus that came from the territory of China but came from bats. This is a bat virus, not a China virus. It doesn't speak Chinese. It doesn't target Chinese people. It targets human beings who happen to touch their eyes, nose

I'm Chinese. I don't need your "solidarity" over President Trump correctly identifying the Chinese coronavirus and holding China responsible for the viral pandemic it unleashed upon the world.

China lied. People died.

The use of migrant labor, some of it illegal, in both Iran and Italy, played a major role in the spread of coronavirus, emphasizing once again how open borders were a vector for the disease.

Good morning.

Our thoughts continue to be with victims of the Chinese coronavirus, which started in China, was covered up for over a month by the Chinese government, and spread around the world because of the Chinese government.

This is why it's called the Chinese virus.

Experts now say fears over "racism" crippled the response to the coronavirus outbreak.

Yet the media is STILL obsessed with Trump calling it the "Chinese virus."

Can we forget about racism for just 5 minutes & fight the actual pandemic?

Italian virologist says open borders & fears over "racism" crippled Italy's response to coronavirus.

Back in Feb, the Mayor of Florence encouraged Italians nationwide to hug Chinese people on the street & remove their face masks.

Utter insanity.

Not much has changed in 2 centuries.

> There is no town in the world which is more adapted for training one away from people and training one into solitude than London. The manner of life, the distances, the climate, the very multitude of the population in which personality vanishes, all this together with the absence of Continental diversions conduces to the same effect. One who knows how to live alone has nothing to fear from the tedium of London. The life here, like the air here, is bad for the weak, for the frail, for one who seeks a prop outside himself, for one who seeks welcome, sympathy, attention; the moral lungs here must be as strong as the physical lungs, whose task it is to separate oxygen from the smoky fog. The masses are saved by battling for their daily bread, the commercial classes by their absorption in heaping up wealth, and all by the bustle of business, but nervous and romantic temperaments, fond of living among people, fond of intellectual sloth and of idly luxuriating in emotion, are bored to death here and fall into despair.

The truth is somewhere in-between, but still far from either of those extremes.

Any man who is "okay with" or supportive of his significant other producing pornography is either entirely emotionally indifferent towards the relationship or ideologically emasculated by "who am I to judge?" relativism. I'm not sure which is worse.

Got to see something unusual today. Poles who return to the country from abroad have to self-quarantine at home for 14 days. The police perform random checks to see if they are home. They call them and ask them to show themselves from a window or balcony. #BetterSafeThanSorry

UK government to release an app which alerts you to people infected with coronavirus nearby.

Tracks your location, pings it to a database. They hope over 50% of population will download it.

What could possibly go wrong?

Daily reminder that China is to blame for coronavirus.

It originated in China.

China lied about human to human transmission.

The WHO amplified this lie.

China disappeared doctors who tried to warn the world.

Yet our media still suggests it's racist to talk about any of this.

Have you checked the numbers lately?

Why would you worry about people coming from Shanghai where they have no new cases while you guys in the UK spread it with daily increases of total cases of 20%???

Yes, the trustworthiness of the Chinese Communist Party when it comes to coronavirus, which they covered up for months and silenced doctors who tried to warn the world, is well known.

U.S. intel report: "China has concealed the extent of the coronavirus outbreak in its country, under-reporting both total cases and deaths it's suffered from the disease."

I was saying this in January, while the WHO & the western media was busy amplifying Chinese fake news.

I don't think applauding the NHS once a week from our windows and balconies is enough.

Should be every 5 minutes. Mandatory and enforced by drones. Fines and jail time for those who refuse.

It is quite frankly unbelievable that flights are still coming in from China, America and Italy.

When the history book is written, we will see that the British government allowed the daily import of spreaders into this country.

More accurate estimates now say more than 40,000 died in China.

Their cover-up placed the world in peril and led to tens of thousands of needless deaths.

Once this is over, a massive investigation should be launched and China should be forced to pay up for what they have done.

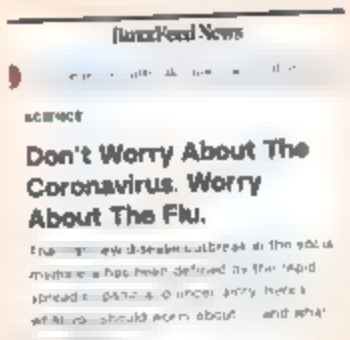
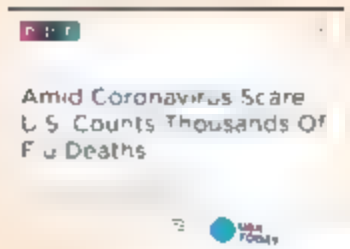
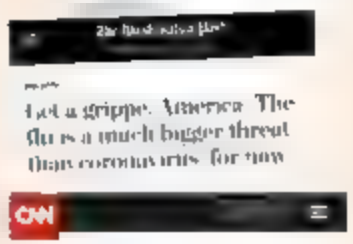
Really?



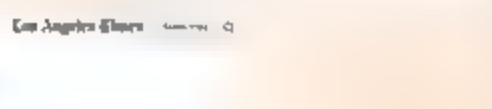
And what about all the anti-Trump media outlets that said it was "just the flu, bro" for weeks on end?

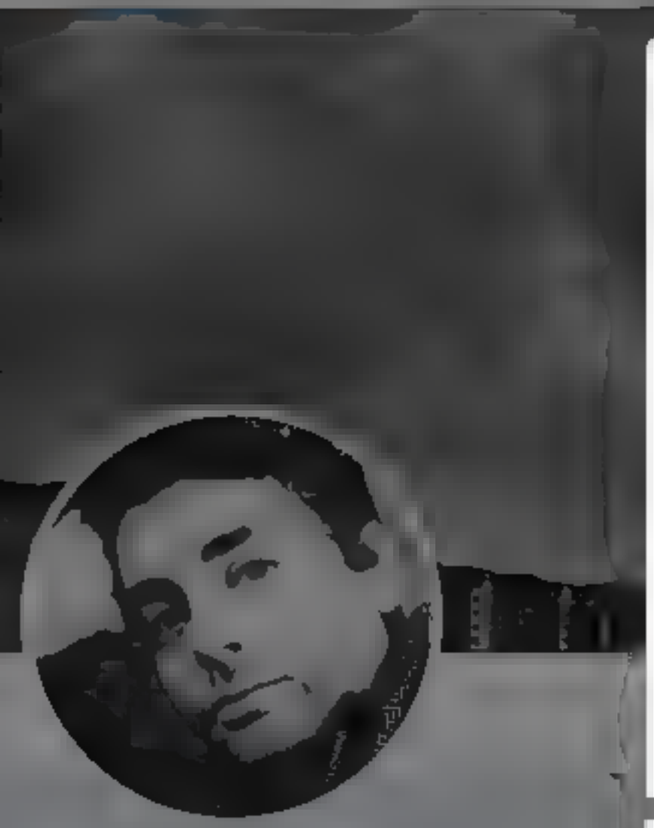


Why do they get a pass?



This virus has killed more than the new coronavirus. It's called the flu





Coronavirus is scary, but the flu is deadlier, more widespread

They're also not enforcing quarantine by law.

Are their COVID death numbers more realistic than those of other countries or a fudge?

The fact that the absurd "5G causes coronavirus" conspiracy theory is raging through the UK is yet more proof that Facebook's war on "fake news" was never about combating harmful conspiracy theories, it was about censoring right-wing political opinions.

Several reports over the past couple of days have exposed how China is profiteering hugely from the coronavirus that it failed to contain, and the severity of the spread that the communist state lied about.

10 DOWNING STREET
LONDON SW1A 2AA

THE PRIME MINISTER

I am writing to you to update you on the steps we are taking to combat coronavirus.

In just a few short weeks everyday life in this country has changed dramatically. We all feel the profound impact of coronavirus not just on ourselves, but on our loved ones and our communities.

I understand completely the difficulties this disruption has caused to your lives, businesses and jobs. But the action we have taken is absolutely necessary, for one very simple reason.

If too many people become seriously unwell at one time, the NHS will be unable to cope. This will cost lives. We must slow the spread of the disease, and reduce the number of people needing hospital treatment in order to save as many lives as possible.

That is why we are giving one simple instruction - you must stay at home.

You should not meet friends or relatives who do not live in your home. You may only leave your home for very limited purposes, such as buying food and medicine, exercising once a day and seeking medical attention. You can travel to and from work but should work from home if you can.

When you do have to leave your home, you should ensure, wherever possible, that you are two metres apart from anyone outside of your household.

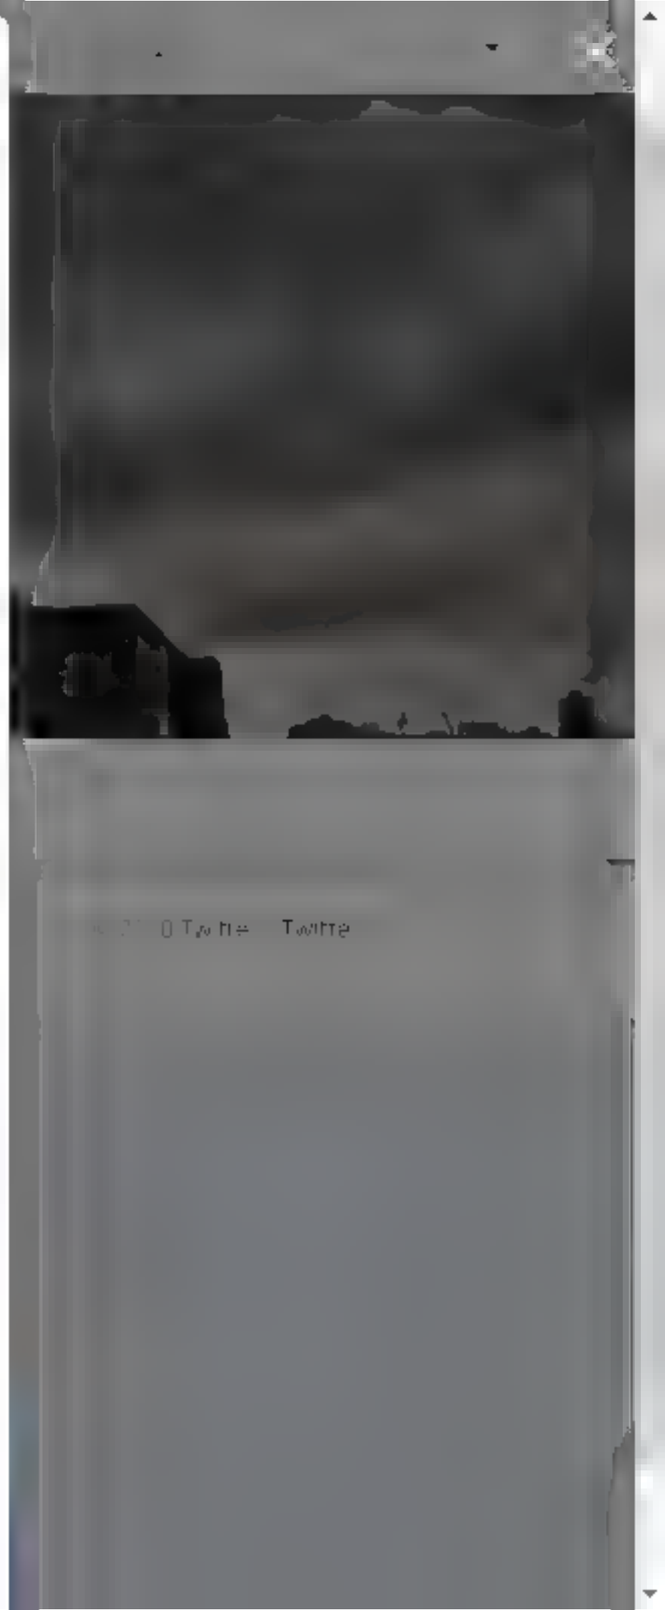
Steady on, BBC.



"great equalizer", data suggests that vulnerability to the infection may vary by neighbourhood.

In Michigan, African Americans make up 14% of the population, but they account for 33% of the coronavirus cases and 41% of deaths, figures from the state health department showed on Monday.

White residents account for about 23% of recorded cases in Michigan and 28% of deaths, according to the data.

WHO's technical lead for the response noted in a press briefing there may have been limited human-to-human transmission of the coronavirus (in the 41 confirmed cases), mainly through family members, and that there was a risk of a possible wider outbreak. The lead also said that human-to-human transmission would not be surprising given our experience with SARS, MERS and other respiratory pathogens.

So I'm trending, and everyone thinks I got offended by Piers Morgan blocking me.

Erm, no, I called him a fraudulent, sellout cringe twat.

And he blocked me.

I have not blocked him.

Because I'm not an intellectual fucking coward.

A sizeable proportion of the British population is very obedient.

A sizeable proportion is the exact opposite.

The next 3 weeks will be interesting.

I remember my infant school had a book buying event after school ended. For me as a keen young reader, it was very exciting. I bought little Christian books about Jesus, Mr Men, the Twits & stuff. Now the after school event is Drag Queen Story Time. We've fallen a long way.

Remember how every doctor and dentist's office in the US had a copy of volume 1 of The Bible Story in the lobby?

I remember in Middle School they'd have a special few days every year where they'd set up a book buying event in the gym. All sorts of books. Reasonably priced. I got in to reading after discovering 'choose your own adventure' books. We need more positive things like that 4 kids.

My orthodontist had Christian story books on tables in the lobby. I read them. My family is hard core atheist. But I converted to orthodox Catholicism, and I bless that good orthodontist. You never know what small actions will bring about. It changed my life.

The authoritarian dream of "control" of the virus, that these punishing measures will "win the war" + "save lives", is underwritten by a fatal fallacy: that life is something separated from social + economic decisions. That ideology has somehow been sold.

But social & economic decisions cost lives. Across power, from Government lockdown to YouTube censoring non-WHO verified Covid info, there's a fantasy that the virus is immediately knowable, quantifiable & controllable. And that scientific imposition of more controls saves lives.

2 11 57

Silkie Carlo @silkiecarlo · Apr 23
"Lives" as some biological thing distinct from social & economic decisions. It's important for the human rights balance - there can be no blank cheque for prolonged lockdown on the basis of right to life. The lockdown is costing lives & will continue to, the effects are prolonged

1 9 50

Silkie Carlo @silkiecarlo · Apr 23
The temptation for governments is to prolong "control" because the test of success has become controlling and lowering quantifiable "Covid deaths" despite the numbers being unclear - despite a most half UK weekly excess

She's not funny. Her jokes are awful and her comedic timing is worse. She slurs nearly every punchline.

That's why she got cancelled.

He blocked me because I called him out and owned his lying, inauthentic ass.

The fact that this has been translated as me having a "complete breakdown" is interesting.

It's so terrible that I'm trending on Twitter and laughing my head off.

Boo hoo.

Best "breakdown" ever.

> Millions of people in our country have been plunged into idleness at public expense and unemployment, facing financial and psychological hardship on a scale never seen before. Thousands of people have missed life-changing appointments. Vulnerable people are isolated and domestic violence has soared. Soon will come the full economic impact on all our lives.

"Did you really think that we want those laws to be observed? We want them broken. There's no way to rule innocent men. The only power any government has is the power to crack down on criminals. Well, when there aren't enough criminals, one makes them. One declares so many things to be a crime that it becomes impossible for men to live without breaking laws. Who wants a nation of law-abiding citizens? What's there in that for anyone? But just pass the kind of laws that can neither be observed nor enforced nor objectively interpreted—and you create a nation of law-breakers—and then you cash in on guilt."

Whoa. How exactly am I "demeaning" Rockhold by saying I don't find him physically attractive? Not all girls are into the American frat boy look.

Personality-wise, he seems to have zero game confirmed by Dana White himself

This isn't to say that there aren't issues which women face. They're more likely to suffer domestic abuse at home. They're more likely to suffer trauma from working in the health service through this.

They need raising. They don't need raising via the tone of some gender war

UK: "Allowing members of the general public 'unlimited exercise' shall be applied from Monday as a reward for the nation staying inside since March 23."

People were exercising for hours anyway & there was no enforcement of 'once a day'.

This isn't an 'easing' of lockdown.

I mean, there'll be no economy, the outside world will be a Mad Max hellscape, we'll all end up having to survive on squirrels, half the population will starve.

But at least there'll be fewer COVID deaths!

Hell, you don't even have to promote #civildisobedience. Twitter and Youtube will ban you just for contradicting their narrative.

The Bakersfield ER docs got banned for disagreeing with the CDC view of the week.

Owen Jones is outraged that Michael Gove and Sarah Vine own a book from David Irving.

Which is strange, because Owen Jones defended Corbyn for writing a foreword praising a book that claimed that Jews control European finance.

If you don't like his morals - he always has others

Owen Jones
@OwenJones84

If Gordon Brown can write an approving foreword for Adam Smith's gratuitously racism Wealth of Nations and that isn't scandalous, why is it so for Corbyn writing a foreword for liberal icon J.A. Hobson?

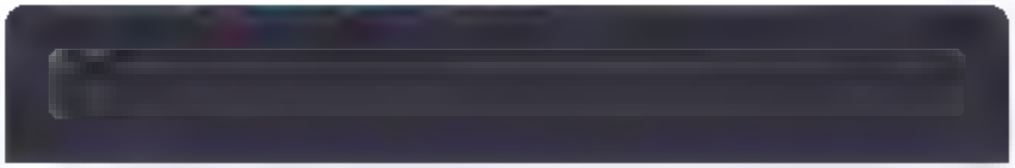
The UK government can now legally access your phone location data to see who you might have spread coronavirus to.



I'm 100% confident these powers will not be abused after the pandemic ends.

A "distinguished journalist" in the UK said this but didn't want to be named as he'd get fired.

There s a horrible irom that the 75th anniversary of VE Day should fall during the lockdown. The British nation fought the Nazis to preserve our ancient freedoms — that future generations would be able to live without fear. At this moment, Parliament is no longer properly functioning, jury trials have been suspended (perhaps permanently), technology giants appear to be censoring free speech, protest is deemed a dangerous activity, and the citizens of this country remain under indefinite house arrest. A Government adviser, Professor Fitzgerald of Nottingham University, today admits in the Telegraph that the Government has created a climate of fear — that has terrorised Britons. Fear has replaced hope and an untrammelled state has replaced limited government. A year before VE Day, Friedrich Hayek published The Road to Serfdom. Never before has our nation progressed so far down that route. What in the hell s there to celebrate

A society that kills a million babies a year for convenience has shut itself down to prevent adults from dying. And to make matters worse, the people who celebrate the mass slaughter of children are now preaching about the sacred value of human life. The whole thing is sick.

Gentle reminder to all the leftists pontificating today about the defeat of Nazism: Hayek, writing in 1944, noted little distinction between Nazism and Communism - which he bracketed together as collectivist ideologies inimical to freedom and prosperity. You're all the same.

Daily reminder that China is to blame for coronavirus.

It originated in China.

China lied about human to human transmission.

The WHO amplified this lie.

China disappeared doctors who tried to warn the world.

Yet our media still suggests it's racist to talk about any of this.

Leftist academics want lockdown to continue indefinitely because they think it will lead to cancellation of Brexit.

"This has become a middle-class wet dream of what the revolutionary overthrow of capitalism would look like."

> I'm a Senior Lecturer at a UK higher education institution currently stuck doing remote working among a group of typical identitarian fair-trade falafel-munching academics. It probably won't surprise you to learn that our colleagues really don't want this magic money tree-fuelled pass about to end. They chirrup away quite happily to each other on Microsoft Teams about how it might bring down the "Tory Scum" government and thus also cancel "racist Brexit". Part of the ongoing appeal of the lockdown for them is the opportunity to spend all day safe at home baking Nordic inspired loaf cakes, knocking out virtue signalling blogs about sustainable living whilst simultaneously planning their next foreign holiday (of course) and angrily taking to social media to demand more white deaths from COVID. It was a form of separation for colonial injustices. Was I might have made that last one up, but you get the idea. This has become a middle-class wet dream of what the revolutionary overthrow of capitalism would look like.

I returned to film on the Kent coast this morning.

Every time I witness more illegal migrants arriving with help from the Border Force.

Nothing will stop me from drawing attention to this scandal taking place. I will not be silenced.

And no, it's not "racist" to find it a little odd that 100% of the models are non-white in a country which is 87% white.

If a clothing company in Nigeria used 100% white models, you'd all be having meltdowns.

Essential worker: "Social distancing is virtually non-existent."

I am what you would call an 'essential worker' and a student who currently works at a supermarket around 4 or five days a week. My brother who I currently live with is also in this category and he works at a different supermarket in the same town. Aside from the odd sheltered middle class mum, social distancing is 'virtually non-existent'. constantly have people coming up close to me asking where to find bleach and the idea that we are trying to consciously practice it is a joke. There is no limit on how many people can enter the shop. None of the staff wear masks as wearing one for a prolonged period of time (8 hours) is extremely uncomfortable and having to reapply them or touching your face completely destroys the purpose of wearing one. The staff room and the toilets are pretty filthy, so much so that I wash my hands no sanitiser after touching every single appliance. The staff themselves don't practice any form of social distancing as it makes their job literally impossible and to mention, everyone is working twice as hard to stock the shelves because people still continue to stock pile. My wife delivers again, a stands to reason, rapid sanitising and refrigerating your delivery van after touching surfaces which ironically is probably the best scientific defence again contracting the virus

The truth of course is that the modern left only cares about poor people when it can exploit them as a human shield to obtain more power.

When that power comes at the cost of poor people, they're happy to abandon them in a heartbeat.

We're re-designing our entire society around "social distancing," at massive cost, despite widespread anecdotal evidence that most people aren't even practicing it and despite the fact that in many scenarios, it's practically impossible.

Question for the "stay locked down until a vaccine" crowd: what if there's never a vaccine? Would you stay locked inside for the rest of your mortal life? If not, at what point would you decide that you've been hiding long enough and you might as well just get back to living?

Swarms of migrants are coming illegally into Kent and now the government is ferrying in migrants from Athens by plane. Brits have been forced to lock themselves away at home while the government is throwing the doors to the country open - what are Boris and Priti thinking?!

This is a lie from @SadiqKhan.

This u-turn - hiking fares and ending his tourist travel subsidy - was announced in March, before the lockdown or bailout.

Continuing to blame Gov for his own financial negligence is not leadership. It's playing politics.

PA has had less than 4,000 COVID deaths. 70 percent have been in nursing homes after the governor ordered them to take COVID patients. That leaves about a 1,000 non-nursing home deaths, or .008 percent of the population. PA just extended the lockdown into June. Insanity.

I agree. But people have been so brainwashed to think that they will die if they get this (a majority of deaths in many states occurred in nursing homes) that they have essentially surrendered their rights out of fear. I'm shocked as well but I guess fear is powerful

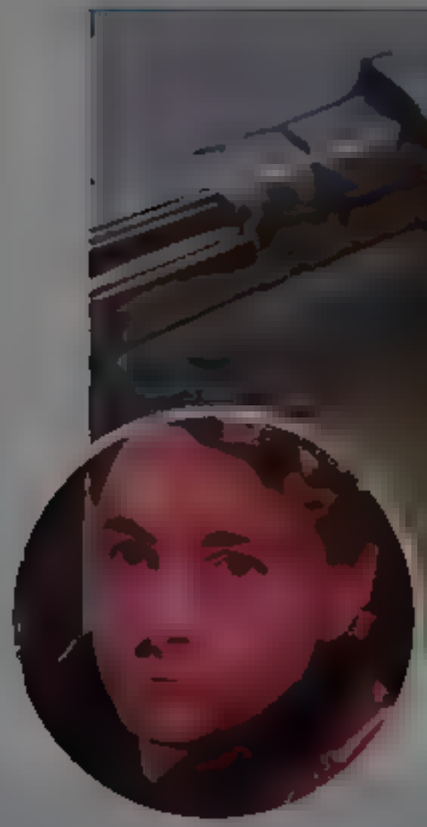
I've only seen one elderly person wearing a mask.

Most of the mask wearers are people aged 20-40. Some are called Karen.

If you're at risk, fine, but for many it's become a status symbol for obedience.



Men less likely to wear face masks because it is 'a sign of weakness'

This was the reaction to a goal. Believe it or not players haven't always hugged each other when they've scored. Footballers never used to be the pansies they are now

Do I have to explain this? The point is, why are they "social distancing" during a goal celebration when they've been having contact with other players the entire game.

The fact I have to explain tweets to people is depressing.

They're not staying at home though. At least not primary school teachers who are in school teaching vulnerable children and the children of key workers. This in addition to planning work for home schooling. I haven't heard any other sector who are working from home being vilified

It's amazing how sanctimonious the lockdown fanatics are about keeping everyone under lockdown. Just 33 people under 40 in England have died from Covid - there are probably 30m of them. Is it proportionate to deprive them of life, liberty, education, work, relationships?

I should say just 33 have died from Covid with no pre-existing conditions under 40 in England out of 30m of them Meanwhile 49 people a year get hit by lightning.

> I am steeped in dread. I foresee months, if not years, of inane gesturing towards 'safety' that makes no appreciable difference to the nation's health, but does manage to 1) ruin everyone's enjoyment; 2) perpetuate the socially poisonous notion that one's neighbour is a threat to one's very life; 3) maintain an atmosphere of the extraordinary, in which the state may violate civil rights at will; 4) lay waste to what little might otherwise have remained of this country's economy. A scientific study in Austria has found that SARS-CoV-2, the coronavirus that has led to a pandemic, was likely created in a lab, barring some “remarkable coincidence” that led to the virus naturally evolving to be optimised to attack human cells.

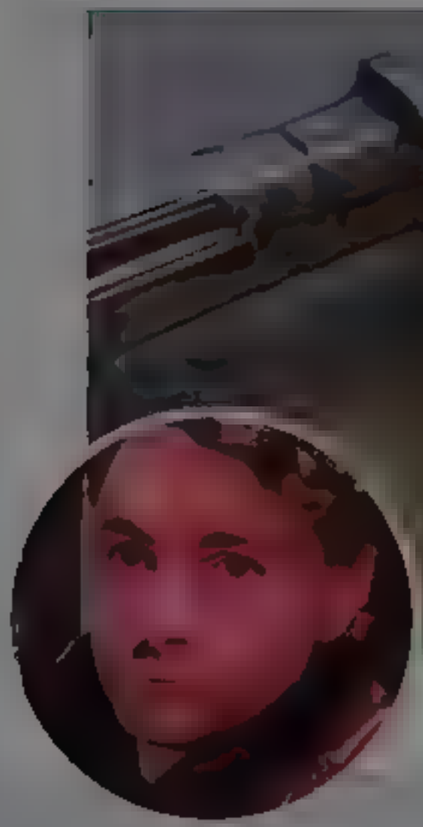
Incredible how the UK left is preventing kids from going back to school.



- Data shows risk of them getting COVID is infinitesimal.

- Those harmed most by this will be poorer kids with parents who cannot homeschool.

Once again, they don't care about the poor, only about power.

Covid response will be the new social justice issue. A whole new culture of SJWs will be born from this, creating a competitive wokeness contest for who can virtue signal their illogical guideline adherence loudest, and chastise those who don't comply with the most fury. #ReOpen

Re: Candace Owens

To Whom it May Concern:

We are on behalf of our client, author Candace Owens, with regard to the false news warning you have published on the platform that falsely accuses Ms. Owens of spreading misinformation about the COVID-19 pandemic. Our investigation shows that Facebook's assertion is patently false, defamatory, and was published with reckless and undiscerning disregard of the truth. Indeed, Facebook's accusation is entirely designed to misbrand, suppress, and silence Ms. Owens' conservative perspective on the U.S. government's response to the COVID-19 pandemic. In fact, the truth is the matter is that Ms. Owens' post, which Facebook says contains false information, is supported by opinions based upon facts that are completely true, plausible, and that were wholly ignored by Facebook's "independent fact-checker," LeadStories.com ("Lead Stories").

Ms. Owens is a highly-regarded, free-thinking and popular conservative commentator that offers her opinion on a variety of political issues. Accordingly, on March 26, 2020, Ms. Owens published an opinion that questioned the method that U.S. government officials were using to count the number of deaths caused by the Covid-19

This from Susan Faludi is so important. Feminists never said "believe all women" - the right inserted the "all." Feminists said "believe women" - that is, start with the assumption that women are telling the truth instead of reflexively doubting them.

"Believe all women" has been the rallying cry of the #MeToo movement - a mantra embraced by some but dismissed by others as naive. The tension over the credibility of women is nothing new, especially in rape investigations.

Wait. It takes you 17-18 hours a day to eat healthily and exercise?

Sounds like your system needs changing.

The Daily Beast admitted to trying to hack into a @stoolpresidente / @barstoolsports Twitter account.

Using "Twitter's password reset system," to obtain a user's information is a felony.

Story here:
thedailybeast.com/barstool-sport …

Archive:
archive.is/rZf89

> A brief glance at Barstool's main Instagram account, which has amassed 6.6 million followers, reveals a possible reason why their lawyers have logged so many billable hours. The account is littered with video clips that are often unattributed. Even when Barstool has deigned to give a hat-tip to the videos purported creator—or at least the individual who sent it their way—they may have been burbling around online for who knows how long. (Deadspin's Samer Kalaf first noted many highlights tweeted out by Barstool were actually posted by @havevouseenadog, an account that follows 190 Barstool brands and does nothing but repost highlights and other videos without context or credit.) Using the Twitter [illegible] that it appears to be registered to someone with a barstoolsports.com email address.)

Interesting thread. Things have gotten so insane in regards to the lack of cohesion, sjw/cancel culture, political correctness, racial agitation propaganda etc. that zoomers are looking at the 2000's/2010's as some sort of golden era lol.

rebekah entralgo fernández @rebekahentralgo
Discovered a disturbing trend on TikTok where Zoomers are making ~aesthetic~ videos of high schoolers in the early 2010s and being like "look how happy they were"

Tucker Carlson On Big Tech Censorship:

"The right to have your own opinions, to think for yourself, to disagree with your elected leaders was the most basic right that every American enjoyed for 240 years...and then came Coronavirus & Big Tech and it was all swept away."
